	FIRST ANNUAL PUBLICATION
Monday	Public Administration Focus It is with great pride in our department that we introduce the first volume of the new annual publication "Public Administration Focus." The accomplishments of faculty members and students during the last year are highlighted in the areas of teaching, research, and service. These accomplishments reflect the initiatives and mentoring efforts of previous Department Chairs -- Dr. Liou and Dr. Van Wart as well as our faculty and students. Also, a special thank you goes to the COHPA Communications Department for putting together this publication -- Sara Cooper, Kristie Smeltzer, Alan Smilie, and Director Karen Guin. Please stop by the department to receive a copy of this very professional publication.

Thursday	Latest PAR Features Article by Dr. Korosec The May/June 2006 issue of Public Administration Review - PAR (volume 66, number 3) features an article by Dr. Korosec "Municipal Support for Social Entrepreneurship." The article presents findings from a recent national quantitative and qualitative survey of localities with populations over 50,000, which suggests that municipalities are generally supportive of social entrepreneurs and that municipal managers are aware of the contributions such organizations make to local service delivery. MPA Student – Charlyn Stanberry - Emerging Leader Finalist Charlyn Stanberry was recognized as an emerging leader in the Central Florida community by eWomenNetwork the largest network of female-owned business women in North America. Stanberry is one of two finalists to represent the Orlando area at the eWomenNetwork's Gala in Dallas, Texas in July. As a career goal, Stanberry would like to start a nonprofit organization for at-risk girls as well as a professional and leadership development and consulting agency. The original article was in the Central Florida Times on June 19, 2006. Adjunct Faculty Handbook Showcased by FCTL Jacque Waleski coordinated the efforts of our administrative staff in the development of our first departmental Adjunct Faculty Handbook. Parts of our new handbook are being showcased as an outstanding effort to reach and train faculty adjunct instructors by the Faculty Center for Teaching and Learning (FCTL). This new handbook will be distributed to our fall adjunct faculty members at our orientation either on July 17 or August 3, 2006.
